REFERENCE:

In their order first cited, the Government have permitted the Assistant Inspectors, North and South, Excise and Prohibition Intelligence Bureau, to travel by class II (Special) when they have travel at least 100 miles by rail on a night journey, if that class of accommodation is available in the train. In view of the re-introduction with effect from 1-7-50 of the old system of classification of railway compartments (viz. 1st, 2nd, inter and 3rd classes), the Assistant Inspectors, Excise and Prohibition Intelligence Bureau are now eligible to travel by Inter class only, in which sleeping accommodation is not provided. The Board therefore requests that the Government may be pleased to permit the Assistant Inspectors, Excise and Prohibition Intelligence Bureau to Travel by 2nd class when they have to travel at least 100 miles by rail on a night journey.
